

Licensed Permission to Use Student Work

I, the undersigned, am a student at Cornell University, creating content and contributions (Work) for credit for a Cornell M.Engineering project. I represent and warrant I am the original author of the subject Work. I hereby grant and confer a royalty-free, non-exclusive, fully paid, perpetual, worldwide license, together with rights to sublicense, to Cornell University in the subject Work, for any and all uses of the Work, for all purposes and mediums, known and unknown.

Project Title (as advertised):

Project Description (as advertised):

Title and Short Description of the Work Prepared by the student:

The parties agree that the undersigned (student) retains copyright to the Work, and is only licensing non-exclusive uses to Cornell and its employees for any and all contemplated purposes, commercial and non-commercial; the undersigned retains all rights of authorship inuring to an original copyright holder to the underlying Work, but expressly releases and will hold harmless any third-party licensees or assignees of any rights to the subject Work derived from Cornell University. The undersigned hereby further agrees to release and hold harmless Cornell University from and against any claims, damages, or liability arising from or related to prospective uses of my Work.

The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) protects educational records of students. Students whose educational works appear in publications related to academic classes must give permission to Cornell University to provide access to or present displays or exhibitions of their work. By signing and submitting this license, you agree to make your work publicly accessible in furtherance of the University's educational and research mission.

I am at least 18 years of age and I am competent to contract in my own name. I have read this release before signing below, and I fully understand the contents, meaning, and impact of this release. I understand that I am free to address any specific questions regarding this release, and furthermore I agree that my failure to do so will be interpreted as a free and knowledgeable acceptance of the terms of this release.

Name:

Email:

Signature:

Address:

Date: